History & Campus Need for this Effort
Academic Support & Retention coordinated efforts with the Office of the Dean of Students to create a team where student cases would be discussed to determine which office/staff member should be taking the lead on providing resources and assistance to struggling students.

Team Members
- Academic Advising Center (Maureen Schafer)
- Academic Support & Retention (Mirra Anson)
- Center for Diversity & Enrichment (Cayla Wencl)
- College of Liberal Arts and Sciences (Diane Hauser)
- Office of the Dean of Students (Angie Reams)
- Threat Assessment Team (Jane Caton)
- University Counseling Service (Katherine Donahue)
- University Housing & Dining-Residence Education (Greg Thompson/Becky Wilson)

Types of Student Referrals We Receive:
- Mental health concerns
- Medical – hospitalization, chronic conditions, or emergencies
- Academic concerns
- Death of a family member or student
- Transitional concerns – severe homesickness
- Unexpected events or challenges
- Financial concerns – rent, books, tuition, etc.

Stats & What We’ve Learned
- First meeting: August 2011
- Student cases 2011-2012: 183 students
- Student cases 2012-2013: 330 students
- Student cases 2013-2014: 378 students
- Student cases 2014-2015: 389 students
- Student issues are normally multi-faceted
- Communication is key

Year Five
Connect students with physical and/or mental health resources (e.g. UCS, SDS) proactively; Continue to address the increasing numbers of CDE-eligible and international students by collaborating with the CDE and ISSS and the campus community as a whole to work toward fostering a more inclusive environment for these students; Expand knowledge of EIT to campus partners and the community

How can you connect students to the EIT?
Academic Support & Retention, Mirra Anson (335-1497)
Office of the Dean of Students, Angie Reams (335-1162)
When in doubt—call!